

homebuyer education

your road home

a little knowledge can go a long way

At CHFA, we want you to succeed at homeownership, so we sponsor free in-person homebuyer education classes across the state through a network of CHFA-approved education providers. Several providers also offer online classes in English and Spanish for a nominal fee, which counts toward the $1,000 minimum borrower contribution that CHFA requires.

This convenient class will better prepare you for any situation you might encounter while buying and owning a home.

The class covers:

- an overview of the homebuying process,
- money management skills,
- establishing and maintaining good credit, and
- financial ins and outs of loan programs.

Several providers also offer online classes in English and Spanish. The online class requires a follow-up one-on-one counseling session with the agency counselor.

Online classes are available for a nominal fee, which counts toward the $1,000 minimum borrower contribution that CHFA requires.

where can you take the classes?
